The Constitutional Convention made up

The Constitutional Convention made up yesterday for all the time it lost by not having a session on Monday.

The body was in session from 10:20 clock A M. until 25:2 P. M., and much progress was made with the report of the Committee on the Legislative Depart. Committee on the Legislative Depart-ment in Committee of the Whole. Chairment in Committee of the Whole. Chair-man R. Walton Moore had returned, and he managed the report on the floor with his characteristic dexterity and ability. There was considerable debate over sev-tend sections of the report, but only a tew amendments were adopted. The amendment offered by Mr. Parks providing for legislative authority to enact dog laws was adopted, but one presented by Mr. Brown, of Ecdford, conterring the same authority as to local road laws was rejected. The committee will prob-ably come near disposing of the report flow of memorials and petitions was slight, and there were but two resolutions, both of which were presented by Idi. Witners.

One provided for afternoon sessions and was defeated, while the other called upon the Committee on Accounts and Expenses to look into the advisability of reducing the force of clerks and pages in the convention. This was adopted.

This DAY IN DETAIL.

The convention met at 10:30 o'clock, prayer being offered by Dr. J. J. Gravatt, of the Episcopal Church. Sixty-six mem-of the Episcopal Church, Sixty-six members enswered to the roll-call.

Mr. Keczel, rising to a question of personal privilege, called attentions to the inaccuractes of the official report of the proceedings Saturday. He called attention to the fact that he was mixed in his speech with the remarks made by Mr. Thornton, who was talking on the other side. He exhonorated the stenographers from all blame and said it was due to careless work in the office of the newspaper that published the official reports.
Mr. Withers introduced the following resolution: Resolved, That the Committee on Accounts and Expenditures of the convention be instructed to report to the convention as soon as may be how many of the present force of cierks, pages and other employes may be dispensed with a fivr October 5, 1901.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Withers said the committees would soon have all their reports in, and five-hour sessions were better now than eight-hour sessions in the winter, which would be inevitable unless double-day sessions were begun now.

MR. WATSON OPPOSED.

Mr. Watson said, except as to one or two committees, Mr. Withers was very much mistaken in saying there were others ready to report. He said the Educational Committee, the cities and towns and Suffrage Committee had a great dea of work before them, and the passage of the resolution would seriously embar-rass the work of the committee.

The resolution was then defeated.

Memorials and petitions relative to sale of liquor were then sent it from

Leave of absence was granted to various members.

Memorials against appropriations to

Mr. Hunton sent forward a notice of amendment to rule 20, which provides that seven members can compel the years and nays to be recorded

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.
The convention then resolved itself into committee of the whole to consider the report of the Legislative Committee, Mr. Boaz presiding

Mr. Boaz presiding.

Sub-Section Five of Section Twenty-four, forbidding the Legislature from passing any special or local law relative to the assessment and collection of taxes, was first taken up. An amendment was pending to make an exception, so far as related to animals that were injurious to farming interests. farming interests. Chairman Moore opposed the amendment on the grounds that the general law covered all cases of stock laws, &c. Mr. Keezell said there was a dox-scalp law passed for Rockingham county and it was soon discovered that his county was paying for foxes belonging to half a dozen other counties, and the law had to be amended by the Legislature. Mr. Turnbull said the trouble was that law showed the evils and danger of special legislation.

ON THE WRONG TRACK.

Chairman Moore thought Mr. Keczell was on the wrong track and would flad, on closer investigation, that dogs, hogs, foxes, sheep, cows and all other animals could be as well regulated by general laws and better than by a special legislaws and better than my a special regis-lictive enactment. He said the General Assembly could delegate power to the Eoord of Supervisors of each county to have local option on all such questions. Mr. Hunton said the question of a tax on dogs seemed a rather small matter to be harrassing a Constitutional Conven-tion about, but it was a matter of very great importance to agricultural interests. Local option would not do for the reason that a negro with one dog and a gun could vote to prevent a man having a large sheep industry from continuing in the business. One section of a county might not have any grazing land and would fail to sympathize with the need of protection which the sheep-raising tection realized was imperative. This would give rise, not only to great injusfice, but to a great deal of friction and excitement. He moved, as a substitute,

Sub-section 6, forbidding extending time for assessment or collection of taxes, was adopted without dissent.

Sub-section 7, preventing the exemption of property for taxation, was adopted. Sub-section 8, remitting, releasing, postponing or diminishing any obligation a liability of any person, corporation or association to this State or to any political subdivision thereof, was the subject of considerable discussion. Mr. Eggleston said he thought it unwise to have such a sweeping prohibition. There-might arise cases of great importance when it would be found expedient and necessary to settle or compromise a debt. SECTION ADOPTED.

Mr. Ayers said there was already a general law or could be framed a general law so that all such claims could be set-

He said it would practically destroy all local improvements on the public roads. Different sections of the State required different kinds of road laws. If a road law had to depend upon shifting local pinion for the inauguration of any work of that kind or its prosecution after once hegun, it would amount to nothing.

Judge Portlock strongly supported Mr.

Brown's position and said the words county reads" ought at least to be stricken out of the section. He declar-ed that the question of good roads was one of the most important practical subjects in the State.

Mr. Turnbull, for the committee, defended the section by saying that general laws could be passed by which local road laws could be adopted, without coming to the Legislature every session to to the whole scheme of the committee's report would find that the trouble they

Mr. Waddill favored the amendment of Judge Portlock and gave an interesting account of his conviction with the practical work of road laws and road im-

CONDITIONS DIFFERENT. Mr. Keczell said it would be a great mistake to take the power to pass road-laws from the General Assembly. Road laws in his section had necessarily to be very different from those of the eastern section. If you give supervisors the exclusive control of roads it will be utterly a mistake, on account of the local harrassment to which they would be subject. A law passed by the Legisla-ture could have two-years' trial and the people, seeing the good effects, would become reconciled. If this Legislature was left to local boards they would pass a law one month and repeal it the next, in response to public clamor, stimulted sometimes by demagogues or stirred up of strife.

Judge Hancock opposed the section on

Dr. McIlwaine said if the road super-visors did not have backbone enough to do their duty they ought to resign and let some one else take their places. He went on to say that a "ew years ago Prince Edward county was cursed with bad roads, and on account of them the county lost the Union Theological Seminary, He went on to say that Prince Edward county now had splendld roads, done en-tirely through the influence of public sentiment and without any special road The Board of Supervisors were waked up and had constructed in a short while seven miles of macadamized road and had a road machine now at work months ago from Botetourt county, which his remains will be carried for burial. He was thirty-five years old..

The Traction Company Will Carry the Contest to the Council. The fight between the Traction Company and the Street Committee over the removal of the crossover at Twelfth and Broad Streets, which the committee desires to do away with that the service to Church Hill may be made more satisfac-tory, will be carried to the Council. An ordinance granting the company this per mission will be introduced in the Commo Council at its meeting on next Monday night. It will be referred to the Street Committee, and the friends of the Traction Company are hopeful that with the other members, Messrs. Allen and Whittet, present they may win out in that body next time. Major Allen can be depended upon to vote for the Traction Company. Mr. Whittet's vote is uncer-Gepended upon to vote for the fraction Company. Mr. Whittet's vote is uncertain. The vote Monday night in committee was 6 to 4. In the event dust the Traction Company is again downed in the committee its friends in that body will make a minority report to the Council and the fight will be continued. The matter seems to be a small one but it matter seems to be a small one, but it is one of great importance to the com-pany in the operation of its lines. Pres-ident Bemiss and Mr. E. R. Williams have rarely, if ever, been more earnest and stirred up over a proposition before the Council or its committee than they were Monday night.

The only action in the matter yesterday was a letter to the company from Cuy Engineer Cutshaw, officially informing it of the action of the committee and brdering the removal of the cross-car at once. With this the company will not comply and it will devolve upon Cojonel Cutshaw to report to the committee at its next meeting—after the Carnival, by the way—that the company has not removed the crossover as ordered.
